Much Giving at Christmas Time

One of the greatest virtues of humanity is the charity we bear and show to others, and at no season of the year is it more manifest than at the season of Christmas. Weeks before the great Christian anniversary nearly everyone is planning as to the gifts they will give to others. Some confine themselves to their own families, others extend a little farther and include a few friends, while still others wish to embrace the universe and not only "give until it hurts" themselves but give until it hursts others dependent upon them. Far be it from us to dampen the true Christian ardor that inspires all that is good in one at Christmastide, but we would urge a moderation limited at least to one's ability to give. The professional seekers for charity appreciate this mellowness of even hardened human nature at this season, and devise all sorts of schemes to part the liberal handed ones from their money. It is then the "drives" begin, the "good fellow" organizations are started, and every conceivable scheme hatched to raise funds, some small portion of which, but a very small portion, may reach the deserving poor. Almost every family knows of someone or family who are deserving but whom "unmerciful disaster has followed fast and followed faster" until they are almost helpless, and to whom a charitable gift would be a life-saver at this time, and we advise such a dispensation to them instead of some larger and more popular movement where the funds are collected and dispersed on a percentage basis. If you know of no such families, or individuals, visit one of our orphan asylums, home for the aged and poor, or consult the police officer on his beat and he will tell you of many deserving cases. When the world is inclined to be so charitable, it seems a shame that their charitableness should be abused by some faked up and mercenary object. Be sure that your subject is really in need and deserving and then give liberally to the extent of your ability.

Speculations Not Safe Investments

Since the election there has been a wonderful rise in stocks, and while probably some of these increases have been justified, many are simply fictitious and unwarranted boosts for speculative purposes only. The unfortunate thing about this is that many people, many of small capital, become impatient with the returns on their investments, and the 6 or 7 per cent seems unduly small, while such gloriously big returns are secured on some of the blue sky line stocks. In a short time, maybe before this reaches the eyes of our readers, these fictitiously raised stocks will begin to decline, and it is but a matter of time until they seek their proper level and the "lamb" who is loaded with them becomes the easy victim of the "wolves" and their small earnings and hoardings are swept away.

If a person is young or has a competence he may take a flier if he feels that he can afford to lose the money, but for a person who must rely upon his small capital for an income, it is the heighth of foolishness to put any money in anything but a safe investment. We have an unusually large number of safe, sane and reliable banks, and almost everyone has some connection with one or more of them, and they alone should be your guide in investments. Just at this time, after a sudden "bulling" of the stock markets, the speculative agents reap a harvest from the dissatisfied small investor, and paint with glowing colors the advantage of buying their peculiar stocks, but the wise ones will hold on to their safe investments and be contented with their small returns rather than speculate on making them many times higher. We always hear from the man who makes a fortunate speculation, but the many more who lose either keep quiet about it or accept their ruin with despairing silence.

Naming the New Park. Why Not "Thornton"?

The South Park Commissioners have asked for suggestions for naming the new park to be located between Bishop and Justine sts., 83rd and 85th. This park is to be the connecting link for Loomis blvd. and the South Park system and a very important one for this part of the city.

It is customary to name our parks after distinguished local individuals and we have had many in this part of the town, why not name it for Charles S. Thornton, one of our best old timers and surely always a leading citizen? True, Charley is not dead,, and we hope it may be long until we are required to write his obituary, but no one in that part of the city has done more to advance the neighborhood's interest than Mr. Thornton, and we respectfully submit his good unsullied name.

Christian Science Lecture

William D. Kilpatrick, C. S. B., of Detroit, Mich., member of the Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., delivered a lecture Tuesday evening, December 2d, in Fourth Church of Christ, Scientist, Harvard ave. and Marquette road. His subject was, "The Religion of Christian Science." He said in part:

"Christian Science comes to you, my friends, an open book. It has nothing to conceal but volumes to reveal. Its story is simple and sweet. It is a story of love and compassion; one of hope and happiness; one of comfort and good cheer. Christian Science is the great angel of peace come to earth to heal it of its sorrows and its woes, its sickness and its sin. It is the everlasting foe of fear and unhappiness and disease and poverty and misery. It is the day-star of the Christ guiding into paths of peace and joy and plenty. It bids you doff the sack-cloth and the ashes of grief, despair and grave forebodings and don the garments of contentment and happiness. It will lead you into paths and pastures you know not of and holds for each one of you a God-crowned promise laden with blessings rich and precious. It comes to bring peace to a struggling world and its troubled hearts. Again we hear the voice of the Christ crying in this age to tired humanity:

"'Come unto one, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy and my burden is light.'"

Stewart-Mathias Wedding

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white canton crepe dress with tulle veil and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Catherine Stewart acted as bridesmaid and William Stewart served as best man. Following the church services a reception for 100 relatives and immediate friends was held at the bride's home. After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Mathias will be at home in Marquette Manor.

How Much Milk Do You Use Each Day?

Here is what Bernarr MacFadden, famous health authority, says about this important subject in The Miracle of Milk: "I am willing to go on record as stating . . . ninety per cent of all malnutrition among children everywhere could be cured if two quarts of milk a day were supplied each child.

"I heartily agree with Dr. Graham Lusk when he states that no family of five can afford to purchase a pound of meat until it has first bought at least three quarts of milk."

At the National Next Week "Sam Howe's Love Makers"

Coming to National theatre next week is one of the shows that has helped make burlesque famous. It is Sam Howe's famous show called "The Love Makers."

"The Love Makers" will have a cast of burlesque principals that are hard to equal in one show and their names as they appear on the program are Jules Jacobs, George Hamilton, Happy Will Smith, Tim Benson, Helen Dale, Dolly Lewis, Pauline Elliott, Irene Foy and Sam Howe himself.

The stage settings are the most gorgeous that prevail in any mutual burlesque show and are displayed in a manner that deserve the highest praise which shows that the author's intent has been fully realized and is a credit to any of the higher priced attractions.

In the opening act you will witness the beautiful Niagara Falls which is very realistic and is the most wonderful sight in America. During the course of the show you are shown "Plantation Days" which is an exact scene of the South along in the days of '61.

There is no story to "The Love Makers." It is one of those kind of shows that is entertainment from the opening until the drop of the final curtain on the last act.

The costuming is one of great splendor, which presents many styles with richness of color equal to any of arts and crafts and these designs are beautifully displayed on the "Artists and Models" of "The Love Makers."

Bryan Speaks in Englewood

For the past two years the men's association of the First Presbyterian church of Englewood, Yale ave., at 64th st., have conducted a series of special Sunday evening services. There is a different speaker each night, following the plan of the Sunday evening club at Orchestra Hall. Next Sunday evening, Dec. 7th, Prof. John M. Coulter will speak. His subject will be, "The Religion of a Scientist."

On Thursday evening, Dec. 11th, at 8 o'clock, under the same auspices, Hon. Wm. J. Bryan will speak. Mr. Bryan was engaged to speak at the Englewood church last year, but was unable to come and he is now filling that postponed engagement. No charge will be made, and the entire community are invited. Admission however will be by ticket, which will be given out at each of the Sunday services at the First Presbyterian church, Yale ave. and 64th st., next Sunday. Only those with tickets will be admitted before 7:45. At that time the house will open to all who come, provided the church is not filled by 7:45. Mr. Bryan will probably speak on "The Prince of Peace."

Shop Early, Mail Early

One of the important features in the Shop Early, Maily Early campaign, which is being put on throughout the country by the Post Office Department, is the proper addressing and securely wrapping of Christmas packages. When you wrap your Christmas packages, wrap them securely, put your address in the upper left corner, so, if by any chance, it should go astray, it can be returned to you and not sent to the dead letter office. The good folks of our community last year helped to bring joy and happiness to hundreds of thousands of postmen and clerks. Let's do our shopping early and mailing early again this year, so that we may again enable the postmen and the post office clerks to eat their Christmas dinners home with their families and at the same time assure ourselves of having our Christmas presents delivered to our friends in order that they may be opened on Christmas morning.

What Does a Bank Do With Your Money?

Prepared by James Hughes, First Englewood State Bank

A story is told about a negro who deposited $10 in the bank—his first savings account. About a month elapsed and he again visited the bank. Shoving his book at the teller he asked for his $10.

"Certainly," said the teller, counting out the $10. "Put it back," said Rastus, "Ah just wants to be suah it is still there."

The above story, while of an exaggerated instance, only goes to show the hazy idea most people have about the workings of a bank. What does a bank do with your money? How is it enabled to maintain its organization, be prepared at any time to return your money, and at the same time pay you interest?

Contrary to the general impression, the margin of profit a bank makes on its loans is comparatively small; it is volume of business and turning its funds over and over again that enables a bank to make a reasonable profit.

How a Bank Loans Money

I do not propose to go into a technical discussion of just how a bank loans its money. Such an explanation would not be sufficiently interesting to the general reader. I will, however, explain briefly what a bank does with your money.

In the first place, it must be understood a bank starts in business with a certain amount of capital, realized from the selling of capital stock. This stock was probably sold at a price above its par value, and the money realized over and above the par value was set aside as surplus. In addition, a portion of the profits were, from year to year, set aside as undivided profits, to provide further sums over and above the deposits which the bank is obligated to repay.

These funds, together with the deposits you and other people make, are put to work. Not all is put to work, however. The law requires that a certain percentage must be held in cash to repay deposits whenever demanded. This percentage has been worked out in accordance with the experience of the past, which tells quite definitely what proportions of the bank's deposits will be demanded from day to day.

The balance is invested in such a way that cash can be quickly realized in case the depositors should require amounts in excess of the legal proportion of cash. Much of these invested funds can be converted into cash in as short a time as several hours. Investments of this kind include government bonds, listed securities for which there is a ready market at all times, loans payable upon demand, and so on. A good deal of its loans are payable in thirty, sixty or ninety days—seldom, if ever, for a longer time. Of course, banks invest in real estate securities which take a longer period of time to convert into cash, but the security is so desirable that a proper proportion of assets of this character is good bank practice.

A Reservoir of Credit

The bank may be likened to a huge reservoir of credit. The bank attracts the funds of the people, and while safeguarding these funds in every way, it is enabled to extend credit to worthy business enterprises. The business of the country could not be conducted without credit. Without credit, we would have to go back to the days of barter and exchange.

For example of how a bank extends credit, let us consider the requirements of a coal dealer who must prepare for the winter's consumption of fuel. During the spring and summer months the coal dealer must accumulate a large supply of fuel so he will be ready in the fall and winter to fill your orders. It would take a large capital, indeed, to finance the purchase of so much coal and be forced to wait months before it is sold. The coal dealer is extended credit by the bank to "carry" his stock until he begins to sell it. The maturity of the loan is so placed that it coincides with the period when a dealer has his money coming in, at which time he repays the loan.

Imagine what a predicament the householder would be in if the coal dealer were not able to lay in advance supplies of fuel. The first cold day would find his coal stock exhausted, and people would suffer as a result. This is a typical example of how the bank aids the community by extending credit to worthy business enterprises.

There are many channels in which the bank can employ the funds intrusted to it with safety. These loans are under the close supervision of national and state banking authorities, and the bank is at all times subject to rigid conditions formulated to insure safety. In addition, the bank officials must exercise sound judgment in granting loans, and years of experience fortify and enhance this judgment.

From the foregoing remarks you will appreciate that in depositing money in the bank you are not only benefitting yourself through the safety and profit you realize therefrom, but you are also benefitting yourself indirectly by doing your part in creating the reservoir of credit, which is used to help business and provide employment by means of which you can earn wages and save money.

Fur Facts

By HARRY HIMMEL

The Civet Cat

This little animal rarely exceeds a foot in length and its tail is shorter than the head and body. It inhabits the lower part of the United States and as far south as Yucatan and Guatemela. The civet cat belongs to the same genus as the polecat. It also differs in the white markings, which it shows in an endless variety of details on its black fur, but which are always so arranged so as to form a lyre, more clearly defined on some specimens than on others.

The largest skins come from the northern part of its habitat, the animals going smaller, coarser and fatter as they go south.

The dressing of civet cat is exactly similar to the methods used in the dressing of skunks. Civet cats are dyed grey-Viatka and Sable shades.

This year it has been more popular than ever before, being used as trimming on silver muskrat coats. This combination forms a very striking effect, and makes a very youthful coat for the young girl.

Style forecasters are predicting a very big year for civet cat coats for the coming year.

Stratford Beauty Shoppe Has Changed Hands

Miss Hazel Trowbridge and Miss Pearl Thomas, two popular young ladies, have just recently purchased the Stratford Beauty Shoppe at 718 West 63rd st., and they will be pleased to have all of their many friends visit them at this location.

Both Miss Trowbridge and Miss Thomas are very well known here in Englewood as fine people personally and expert beauty shoppe operators. Call in and visit them. they will be glad to see you.

The University of Illinois

Here in Chicago practically every one is familiar with the achievements (in athletics and scholarship) of the University of Chicago. Not quite so many, however, happen to know about the University of Illinois.

The Illinois State University has, of course, made a name for itself in the field of athletics, and the accomplishments of the popular "Red" Grange and his like are well known throughout the state. Let us not, however, forget the fact that from the standpoint of scholarship and larger service the University of Illinois stands very high among the educational institutions of the nation.

The idea which should be particularly emphasized is that Illinois, like Wisconsin, is a very democratic institution which endeavors to not only give instruction to those in actual attendance but through the medium of special literature, to acquaint our people with many of the important matters of public concern.

For example the agricultural department seeks to cooperate with and bring information to, the farmers. Then again, in the department of journalism and in the graduate school every effort is made to not only benefit the student, but to aid the public in general.

We may well be proud of the University of Illinois.

Hamilton Park Branch Chicago Public Library

Everyone, at some time of his life, resolves to read certain books—then promptly forgets them until he is reminded, by some embarrassing incident, that there are several important books which everyone else seems to have read which he has not. The Hamilton Park branch of the Chicago Public library has many such books in its collection, and suggests the following titles for those who wish to form a background of good literature:

Age of Fable, by Bulfinch; Legends of Charlemagne, by Bulfinch; Story of the Epics, by Guerber; Story of Roland and The Story of Siegfrid, by Baldwin; Poems of John Milton, Percy B. Shelley, Alfred Tennyson, and Robert Browning; Lays of Ancient Rome, by Macaulay; Divine Comedy, by Dante; Plays, by Shakespeare; School for Scandal, by Sheridan; Dr. Faustus, by Marlowe; Essays, by Emerson, Bacon, and Macaulay; Autobiography of Benvenuto Cellini; Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin; Life of Voltaire, by Morley; Plutarch's Lives; Meditations of Marcus Aurelius Antonius; The Bible (this last is for reference only).

These titles are but a few of the many among the non-fiction alone that might be suggested, and the fiction shelves hold quite as many. The library is open every day from nine in the morning until nine in the evening (except Sunday) and may be used by anyone living, working, or attending school in the city.

A Man Companion For Every Boy

By Brother Barnabas

The boy is a human dynamo. Going, doing—it is as easy to dam Niagara as to check the activity of a healthy youth in his teens. The water will dash along, do what we will. But the wind which works havoc in the garden turns the windmill industriously, and the power of the water which upsets the boat may be harnessed to run an engine.

One boy out of every fourteen is haled into the delinquency court. Two things are needed to remedy this deplorable condition. A program of directed activity for the boy's leisure time, and men trained professionally for his leisure time leadership, just as teachers are trained to direct his mind, and doctors to care for his body. It is hardly possible to over-estimate the importance of this type of leadership. It is too vital a thing to the world of the future to be left to chance. Such leaders must have tact, sympathy and wisdom.

They must be men of high character, dedicating their lives to the services of their country through its boyhood. They must have physical buoyancy and youth. They must have training. Surely no requirements of education are too high for this profession. The recreation leaders must be trained in pedagogy, for they have to teach; they must be familiar with psychology, for young minds are in their care; they must be practiced in sports and athletic activities; they must be versed in various crafts and occupations dear to a boy's heart.

The boy has a simple soul. He needs not a complexity of activities but simpler ones. He is as elemental as a savage; he wants a simple environment, not the multiplicity of activities that surround him on every side. His nervous organism becomes over-developed.

The members of the family until some fifty years ago spent their lives together. Father and the boys worked together in the fields, together they found amusement and relaxation. As the development of rural life gives way to cities, and social and industrial changes appear, the parents are now too occupied in making a living to educate the boy properly. Women have entered the ranks of industry in growing numbers. In the social classes where actual wage earning on the part of the mother is not necessary, there are numerous activities that prevent the former close and intimate family life.

During the time of transition a third agency in the education of the boy was developed—the school for the boys of the masses. The Church was the first to realize the vital importance of universal education, and about 200 years ago she fostered the establishment of organizations to supply especially trained men for this work. For two centuries these three agencies, the church, the home, and the school have been working together to develop and train the boy for citizenship.

But this is a new epoch upon which we are entering. There is nothing to be regretted in the change from old customs, but we must recognize the fact that a change has come, and we must prepare to meet the new conditions if we are to save the manhood of the world.

The church and Sunday school no longer are the vital elements in the life of our youth that they were.

There remains the school. Now the boy in his teens is as sensitive as a young plant, and as plastic as a piece of clay. He needs the companionship, craves the friendship of a man. That his home does not supply it, that his school fails him and his church cannot meet his needs, do not change his nature. Companionship he must have, and he gets it where he can—in the street and up the alley.

By the design of God there is a particular time in a boy's life when he seeks a man upon whom to mold his character. In the past, as has been noted, there was his father, his close companion, his ideal. With the passing of rural conditions the schoolmaster supplied this need to a great extent. He knew little about the science of pedagogy and his instruction perhaps made up in force what it lacked in finish. But he did enter vividly into the lives of the boys in his schoolroom; he was a vital factor in the community and a force in building its character. The community apparently under-rated the type of his leadership, however. They paid the teacher so poorly that the young men felt that they could not afford to go into the profession.

They left the ranks of teachers, and the job of educating our boyhood has been turned over largely to women. Now, in many respects, I believe that women are better fitted to teach than men; and they are possessed of a sublime patience, and a sympathetic understanding. But these qualities do not alter the fact that during his impressionistic years, the boy craves and needs the companionship and friendship of an adult of his own sex.

Between the ages of twelve and eighteen is the most important period of a boy's life. It is then that his ideals are acquired, his character formed. In these years is needed the leadership of a man of high principles. He needs an ideal on whom he may model his own character.

It is only a short generation ago when any girl who completed school was considered qualified to teach. It is hardly a longer time that we have been giving highly specialized instruction to dentists. The profession of forestry was unknown to our fathers.

Recreational leadership is still at its beginning. Shall we demand lower qualifications of those who are going to form the characters of the boyhood of the nation than we do of the man who conserves our forests or fills our teeth?

The agencies that are working upon this problem are striving to fill the ranks. There is no doubt that boys want and need a program of directed activity. The great need is for leadership. Yes, that is the very heart and soul of such work. But back of the volunteer leader, encouraging him, directing him, guiding him, is needed the trained worker.

Let us not repeat the costly mistakes we made in the teaching profession. High standards of character, ability and training are necessary for this vocation and they must meet a commensurate reward. No other profession takes so much time to master, no others so vital to the life of the nation. The young men who enter its ranks should not feel anxiety about their compensations. They should be able to put their whole life into their profession.

Although it has been customary for the heirs of the throne of Great Britain to marry nobility, the Prince of Wales could lawfully marry a commoner without its affecting his inheritance of the Crown.

Universality

UNIVERSAL telephone service must be universal in scope—it must reach anyone, anywhere. But it must be universal also in cost—it must be within the financial reach of everyone, everywhere.

Years of research have been required to provide the telephone instruments, switchboards, wire and supplementary apparatus which afford inter-communication between housewives, shopkeepers, farmers and millions of other American telephone users.

But these facilities do not in themselves make America's telephone service a universal service. Telephone engineers have spent years of additional study in order to build, maintain and operate this nation-wide system so economically that the cost of service may be kept at all times well below its value to the telephone user.

Upon the two fundamentals of extensiveness in scope and economy in cost the Bell System has built the most universal telephone service in the world.

During the past few years much of the telephone plant in Illinois, originally erected at pre-war costs, has worn out or been outgrown, and has been replaced, at post-war prices for material and labor. This has added greatly to the average investment per telephone.

Thin legs and fatter ones,
Especially the latter ones,
Showing their knees.
Knock-kneed and boney ones,

Silk-covered, toney ones.

Chicago's Importance in Washington

If Martin B. Madden, representative from Illinois, 1st Distrist, becomes Speaker of the House, Chicago will vault into the saddle in the Sixty-ninth Congress and sit there as firmly as Massachusetts sat in recent Congress. It will be Madden, of Chicago, on the rostrum in the House and Dawes, of Chicago, in command in the Senate. Whether Mr. Madden gets the gavel or not, the ascendancy of the west in the legislative branch is imminent and inevitable. With General Dawes presiding; Mr. Borah of Idaho, heading Foreign Relations in the Senate; Mr. Smoot, of Utah, Chairman of Finance; Wr. Warren, of Wyoming, chairman of Appropriations; Mr. Johnson, of California, chairman of Immigration; Mr. Norris, of Nebraska, chairman of Agriculture, and Mr. Capper, of Kansas, Mr. Stanfield, of Oregon, Mr. Jones, of Washington, and half a dozen others in important chairmanships, the western country will be fairly in command of Senate proceedings. In the House, with Ways and Means, Agriculture, Appropriations, Immigration, Military Affairs, Public Lands, and Veterans' Legislation et al. in western hands, the west will have nothing to complain of in the lower branch, either.

Postal Employes Entitled to Better Pay

Uncle Sam is a grand old man, but he has a habit of forgetting some of his employes, and none more so than the splendid force of postal employes who play so important a part in the development and progress of our big nation. They are entitled to much higher pay and again are taking measures to secure it in a peaceful effort to reach Congress and the powers that be down on the Potomac.

Following are the resolutions passed at a recent meeting of the Chicago organization, which we are sure can be endorsed by everyone in Englewood:

Whereas, it is essential to an efficient postal service that the postal employes be adequately paid and that wage standards be sufficiently high to attract the best class of employes; and

Whereas, postal wage standards during the past ten years have not kept pace with increased living costs and they are now too low to insure an efficient postal service upon which the public welfare so much depends; and

Whereas, the 68th Congress passed by practically a unanimous vote a postal pay bill, known as S. 1898, which had for its purpose a readjustment of the wage standards of postal employes; and

Whereas, this bill was vetoed by the President because he felt that rigid economy in government expenses was necessary; and

Whereas, it was returned to Congress for appropriate action upon said veto; and

Whereas, steps have been taken to meet the objections set forth in the President's veto message;

Therefore Be It Resolved, that Local No. 1, National Federation of Post Office Clerks, in regular meeting assembled, hereby express our belief that the public interest will be better served and the service more extensively stabilized by the maintenance of a qualified and efficient force; therefore, we hereby request our senators and representatives to vote for the passage of Senate bill 1898; and

Be It Further Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the senators and representatives from this state as an expression from the membership of the Chicago Post Office Clerks' Union, Local No. 1, National Federation of Post Office Clerks.

Resolution Committee:

CARL G. H. TOFTE,

Holdup of Every American Consumer of Coffee

The present high price of coffee, which Brazil is exacting from every American consumer, is hitting every one's purse, rich and poor alike. This is not due to shortage of coffee or failure of the crop. But is it a deliberate hold-up on the part of Brazil, which is taking advantage of the prosperous condition of our people since the World war.

Brazil has curtailed the number of bags of coffee to be shipped daily from her ports to 35,000, a supply barely equal to the demands of our country alone, making Europe and other countries bid against us for the above limited shipments, thus forcing us to pay a premium on top of highly inflated prices

We have a treaty with Brazil guaranteeing us all the benefits of a most favored nation. It seems about time for our own government to awake to the fact that, while Brazil has such a strangle hold on the throat of every American coffee consumer, not a penny of this large sum being paid daily to Brazil finds its way into our own public treasury.

Enroute

Although the hours that come and go
Outnumber stars that fleck the sky,
Although they pass like winds that blow
And quickly vanish as they fly.
They are but mile stones in long row
To blaze our trail, and speeding by
They leave them as a guide to show
That what seems far, may be quite nigh.

—George William Woodruff.

Fake Collectors at Work

For the past week the telephone of Roy James Battis, ward representative of the 17th Ward Republican Organization, has been kept busy with Englewood business men calling up to inquire if the organization had authorized anyone to solicit funds in behalf of the organization. In order to warn others who may be approached for contributions in a like manner, the Englewood Times is authorized to say that no one is authorzed to collect any money for this organization at this time. The 17th Ward Regular Republican Organization was chartered August 9th, 1921, under the laws of the State of Illinois. At that time it was named the New 17th Ward Regular Republican Organization; the fifty ward plan just coming into operation. Since that time the New has been dropped and a new charter issued entitled the 17th Ward Regular Republican Organization. The organization is headed by Roy James Battis, ward representative; Herbert Day Battles, president; John C. Huggett, treasurer; and Sgt. Norman Lee Glozer, secretary. It is the only Regular Republican Organization of the 17th ward and is the same organization which sent its delegates to the state convention at Springfield last spring, who were seated on the floor of the convention and nominated the Coolidge presidential electors for whom you voted and elected on November 4th. The organization is chartered not only to safeguard the interests of Republicanism in the ward, but endeavors in various ways to promote civic interest and community development. The 17th ward is a combination of sections of four old wards, the 6th, 7th, 31st and 32nd; this combination being effected under the 50 ward plan. The Regular Republican Organization maintained headquarters up to the last election at 6252 Princeton ave., and regardless of factional affiliation, endorsed and worked for the entire Republican ticket, which ticket was so successfully elected. The organization is now opening up permanent headquarters on the 2nd floor of 304 W. 63rd st., where friends can assemble to discuss Republican policies. A supply of automobile blanks will be kept on hand and a notary will be in charge to administer to the needs of the motorist. Any time the organization can be of service to the people of this community, any favors extended will be a pleasure.

SULLIVAN'S SENSE AND NONSENSE

THE SMILE VALUE

Nobody ever added up
The value of a smile;
We know how much a dollar's worth
And how much is a mile.
We know the distance to the sun,
The size and weight of earth;
But no one here can tell us just
How much a smile is worth.

Fred Bosworth For Postmaster

Many friends in Englewood and over the city are urging the name of Fred A. Bosworth, superintendent of the Englewood postal station, for postmaster of the City of Chicago. The Times enlists right here under Fred's banner, and we hope to see him sitting tight in the big swivel chair of the city office at an early date. We have known Fred Bosworth for over thirty years, and his father the late Dr. Bosworth of South Englewood, now Gresham. He is an Englewood product, and has served his full time in the postal service and is well qualified for the position. Chicago has never had a postmaster that has risen from the ranks, although New York City and Detroit proudly boast that they have, and mighty good officials they make. Englewood or in fact this part of the city, has never had a postmaster and now is the accepted time to urge our candidate for recognition. Mr. Bosworth will be endorsed by all of the business and civic organizations of this part of town, and by our Congressional and state representatives, as well as by all citizens generally regardless of political affiliations. Rah for Bosworth!

Prof. Armstrong Served Long and Well

Prof. James E. Armstrong, principal of the Englewood high school, celebrated not only his birthday anniversary Sunday, November 30th, but also the 33rd anniversary of his principalship of the school. When Prof. Armstrong succeeded the late Prof. Bright in 1891, Englewood High occupied only the small main building, about one-third the size of the present plant, and had 472 pupils housed in sixteen rooms and taught by sixteen teachers. Now the roll call shows 3500 pupils taught by a staff of 125 teachers, and the finest buildings and equipment to be found in any city. Much of this is due to Prof. Armstrong's personal efforts and that of his worthy assistants, and the Time's wishes to extend to its old friend the sincerest congratulations, which we know are shared by all of Englewood.

Extensions of Surface and Elevated Lines Hearing Today

Extensions south of 55th st. will first be given consideration by the transportation committee and all organizations that are interested are urged to be on hand.

A Delayed Thanksgiving Dinner

Mrs. Charles William Rossman entertained at dinner Sunday her sisters Mrs. Bamford, Mrs. Leonard and Miss Edith Williams, also Mrs. Williams of Midlothian and Mrs. Hefner of 62nd st. It was a delayed Thanksgiving dinner and a very enjoyable affair. Other friends spent part of the evening at the hospitable home of the Rossmans at 259 64th st.

Hear Plans for Perfect Sewer System

The west assembly hall of the Hamilton Park Field House was filled with representatives of the various improvement, civic, and commercial organizations Tuesday evening in response to the invitation of a committee already organized at the instance of the Englewood Commercial and Civic association. Mr. Frank F. Porter called the meeting to order and Gerald E. Sullivan was elected temporary chairman and Mr. James Hughes secretary. The roll call showed delegates present from Auburn Park, Chester Highlands, Park Manor, Englewood E. C. & C. A., West Englewood, North of Garfield blvd., Hamilton Park, Pullman, Roseland, Gresham and other organizations. After stating briefly the reason for the call of the meeting the chairman called upon Mr. Magner who stated in a comprehensive manner the present sewerage system of this part of the city, and showed the necessity of greater and better sewers. Mr. C. D. Hill of the city Board of Improvements, and an expert on sewerage matters then took the floor and explained at length the sewer system as it existed and the improvements as proposed and absolutely needed. He advised a permanent organization of the thirty square miles of territory from Leavitt st. to the lake and from the south city limits north to 39th st. and that the drainage canal board be asked to furnish relief for this territory by building a large sewer on what is known as the Aberdeen st. sewer plan, which would give an outlet to the river and drainage canal west, and then intercepting sewers as needed, which would afford relief for the entire territory. The plan was tentatively accepted for consideration, and a conference will be arranged with the Drainage Board Trustees at an early date. An adjournment was taken until the second Wednesday in January which will be the 14th when the combined delegations will meet at the same place and reinforced by the Woodlawn Park, Kenwood and South Park organizations effect a permanent organization, and consideration of the best methods to be adopted. There was a general discussion in which delegates from every part of the district advanced their ideas, and discussed the best means of proceeding. Alderman McKinlay of the 19th ward was present and entered into the spirit of the meeting with his usual spirit and enthusiasm. The meeting was an enthusiastic one, and we feel that at last we can announce that an adequate and perfect sewer system for the southern district of the city is put under way. Every organization in the territory is invited to appoint delegates and be represented at the meeting Wednesday, January 14th, 1925.

Pennsylvania Wreck Kills Woman

The first railroad wreck that has occurred in Englewood for many years, occurred early Monday morning on the curve at Princeton ave. and 61st place of the Pennsylvania right of way. The train due from the east was an hour late and after crossing the Rock Island was stopped by a defective coupling and while standing still was struck by another train following. The last two coaches of the first train was occupied mostly by emigrants and Mrs. Giernia Zabbatinna aged 40 years was caught in the wash room and crushed to death. Her four-year-old son George was also severely injured. A dozen other passengers were bruised and injured by flying glass. It was undoubtedly a case of carelessness on the part of some one, and is being investigated by the authorities as well as the company.

Former Englewood Actor Playing in Loop

Willis A. Hall, formerly director and leading man of the Marlowe Stock Company and a well known Englewood man, is playing the "heavy" at the Central theatre in "the loop" on Van Buren st. at Michigan blvd. The play opened last week and is meeting with a splendid reception, it is a real comedy drama and has many laughs. Its title is "The Love Test" and the engagement will be continued indefinitely.

Listen In on WBCN Tomorrow Night

Tomorrow, Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock, the new broadcasting station at Foster & McDonnell's plant at 65th st. and Emerald ave. will be put in operation and a fine program has been cast for the entertainment at the introduction of this enterprise.

The new plant is of 500 watt power, wave length of 266, and is of the very latest in radio efficiency. Englewood is really the very first suburban district to install a broadcasting station and Foster & McDonnell are to be commended on their enterprise and effort to put Englewood on the radio map. The program will be a varied one consisting of vocal and instrumental music, talks and introductions by many of the announcers from other Chicago stations.

Some of the announcers from the older Chicago stations will be on hand after 1 a. m., coming to WBCN as soon as they complete their own programs. With them, they probably will bring some of their station's talent.

Representatives of the theatrical world are expected to get into action during the early morning hours, as some of the leading ones have been especially invited.

Owing to the fact that space is decidedly limited, WBCN officials regretfully announce that they will be unable to maintain "open house" on opening night, but will endeavor to take care of would-be spectators at a later date. The large number of entertainers that are necessary to fill out such an extensive bill as is being prepared for Saturday night means that all available sitting and standing room in the studio proper and adjoining rooms will be more than occupied.

For the convenience of listeners-in desiring to express approbation or disapproval, to make a request or to indicate how clearly the program is coming in, a special switchboard operator will be on duty to receive calls. Hence, all phone calls will be welcomed.

Telegrams, too—of the prepaid variety, of course—will be greatly appreciated. Special arrangements have been made to take care of those who telegraph, the Western Union having decided to have two extra operators and extra messengers "on the job."

Thought Police Were Hold-Up Men

To defend his wife from men he mistook for the party of bandits that have kidnaped and assaulted women of the vicinity recently, Hugh T. Stewart, cashier of the West Highlands State bank, shot and instantly killed Officer William A. Perrin, 6150 Talman ave., chauffeur of a detective bureau car that halted in front of his home, 8515 Paulina st., shortly after 1 o'clock Sunday morning.

Stewart was exonerated Monday by the coroner's jury.

Reading Circle Meeting

The Reading Circle of the First Methodist church of Englewood will hold its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles S. Deneen, 457 61st pl., Thursday evening, December 11, at 8 o'clock. At this meeting the members and their husbands will be entertained.

The program will be furnished by Mr. Erwin J. Feldes, vocalist, Mrs. Feldes, pianist, and Miss Edna Agar, a reader of note, who is instructor in dramatic art at the Valparaiso university. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

Frank Hopkins Hands Us This One

The troubles of a country editor are well illustrated in this editorial from the Melrose, Wis., Chronicle:

"It is reported that one of the fastidious newly married ladies of this town kneads bread with her gloves on. This incident may be somewhat peculiar, but there are others. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on; he needs bread with his shirt on; he needs bread with his pants on; and unless some of the delinquent subscribers to this 'Old Rag of Freedom' pony up before long he will need bread without a dámn thing on, and Wisconsin is no Garden of Eden in the winter time."
